

Westminster Pedagogical Principles

- 1 The purpose of our teaching and assessment is to enable learning to take place
- 2 We value the diversity of our students' local and global experience and knowledge as a source of learning for everyone
- 3 We support students to become autonomous learners
- 4 We provide a range of opportunities for learners to collaborate and develop cross-disciplinary understanding
- 5 We foster opportunities in which students, staff and other stakeholders work collaboratively as partners in the construction of knowledge and understanding, in the development of the curriculum and in the co-creation of the institution
- 6 We develop capabilities in our students that will be valued by employers and communities, and will empower students to fulfill their potential for the future
- 7 We use scholarship and critical research to inform our practice and enhance the student experience
- 8 Our learning environment enables learners to experience forms of technology enhanced learning and teaching to enrich their learning opportunities and help them to develop their digital capabilities
